Working Experience
Collins Rex joined the Export Council of Australia in June 2009 as the Victorian State Manager, with responsibility for managing the export programs and activities in that State. Since the start of 2016, Collins has headed up the ECA's product development team, charged with packaging the ECA's research into programs, mobile applications, publications and websites. Collins is also now Head of Skills Development, responsible for all the ECA's education programs. Amongst others, Collins was instrumental in developing the first-of-its kind for Australia, Be Trade Ready website.

Collins has over 25 years' marketing and communications experience. She has owned and operated her own businesses on two continents, and has worked as an award-winning radio and television broadcaster.

Since immigrating to Australia from South Africa in 1997, Collins has specialized in the management of industry bodies and not-for-profit organizations, mostly in the ICT sector, including Microsoft's Victoria.NET industry cluster, SECIA (Victoria's e-security cluster) and MobilityVic, (Victoria's mobile data cluster). She has also managed several major events, including the Interact Asia Pacific Multimedia Festival.

Collins has extensive experience working with Government, industry clusters, and SMEs, particularly in the ICT and advanced manufacturing sectors.

Collins is a graduate of Johannesburg University (formerly Rand Afrikaans University) in South Africa.
